First Volley receives grant funding for Camp No Limits Event

May 10, 2011- Waterloo, Iowa – First Volley Adaptive Tennis, the premier program of OPAF & The First Clinics has received grant funding from USTA New England for Camp No Limits session in Rome, Maine. Grant funding will make it possible to provide two First Volley instructors for the afternoon event, along with supplies and prizes. This will be the fourth year that First Volley has been part of the Camp No Limits program in Maine.

"The kids and their families look forward to the First Volley tennis clinic every year. It is a great sport that all campers can be successful whether they are missing an arm or leg or even both arms!" said Mary Leighton, OTR and Camp No Limits Executive Director. "OPAF is excited to return to Camp No Limits and offer adaptive tennis to their campers each year. Their numbers continue to grow as the popularity of First Volley has continued to grow since our inaugural clinic in 2005," said Robin Burton, OPAF Executive Director.

Camp No Limits will be held at Pine Tree Camp in Rome, Maine from August 2-6. First Volley will be the afternoon event on Friday, August 5. Personnel from USTA New England have been instrumental in the success of these clinics, helping to supply balls and equipment and volunteers. Camp No Limits hosts amputee kid camps at six different locations across the country and encourage the entire family to attend and participate in the camp experience.
